A message from the Chairman

Last year, Isaiah House experienced a season of change. A year of growth, hope, and new beginnings.

2023 brought with it the first sense of normalcy after the Pandemic, and Isaiah House staff and volunteers took advantage of the now, once again, open world by increasing our capacity, opening new centers, and developing our programs to better fit our client's needs.

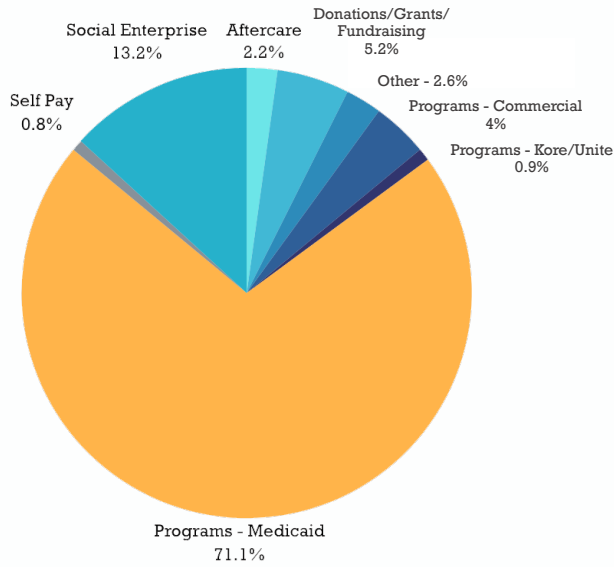

We experienced milestones by expanding our reach into Jefferson County, and celebrated our largest graduating class in December. We also expanded our behavioral health clinic reach into Scott County, and even made headlines for our work in addiction treatment.

Looking forward, Isaiah House has new visions and goals we'd like to accomplish in the coming year, while also keeping the integrity of our successful treatment program intact. We look forward to offering our services in Fayette County by partnering with Lexington Rescue Mission. Our long-term vision for this project is to offer primary care and outpatient behavioral health services, and expand in the future to include access to pharmacy and dental. We're also planning to broaden our behavioral health practice reach by establishing a clinic in Bullitt County.

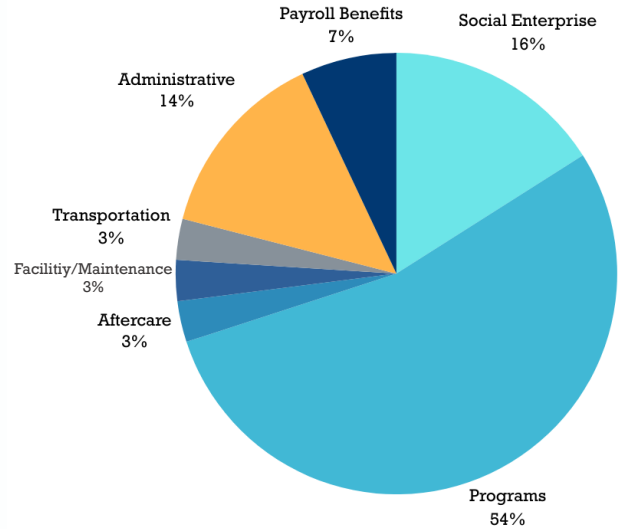

To the staff, donors, partners, volunteers, and communities we serve - our organization would not be able to do the work we do without your support. Because of our Isaiah House family and all who support us, we are able to give hope to the hopeless, and strength to the brokenhearted. We are blessed beyond measure, and in turn are able to bless all those who walk through our doors. - Ronnie Ping

Isaiah House is real hope for addiction!

"Isaiah House is where God put me. It's not just a rehab, it's a family of people who are just like me and have struggled too. They helped me learn that I was the one causing my problems, how to forgive myself, and how to learn to be the best version of me."
- Joshua

"Isaiah House was different than other places I had been through. The staff told me I was loved and deserved a better life. I felt the presence of God in them, and often told them I wanted to help others the way they helped me. I was truly loved back to life and finally felt at peace."
- Jane

"I love Isaiah House. They helped me become sober and become closer to God. The staff is excellent, and the classes are all so good. I benefited from Isaiah House in more ways than one."
- Kenneth

Why I love working at Isaiah House...

"I love working for Isaiah House because I am able to give back to the program that helped save my life, and help women just like myself."
- Samantha

"Isaiah House is the place that made love and compassion the new norm in my life. Isaiah House is the place that gave me the opportunity to truly live and taught me how to live. Isaiah House is the place where brotherhood and family are built. Isaiah house is where work doesn't feel like a job - it's a calling."
- Jason

"I love working for Isaiah House because I am able to be open and honest about my recovery and my faith. I get to play a small part in helping people come to know The Lord and turn their lives around. I get to be challenged and rewarded every day, and I am so thankful for that."

My name is Lily...

I am a recovering addict and alcoholic. Before I entered the Isaiah House program, I was lost, beaten down, and broken. I couldn't even remember who I truly was. I was pregnant, had no job, and had warrants for my arrest. I lost my home, my car, and had to give my mother guardianship of my son.

I was sick and tired of running on the streets, tired of my boyfriend's lies, and just sick of being sick and tired. I realized I was a broken shell of who I once was, and decided to enter the Isaiah House treatment program.

During my first 28 days, I wanted to do nothing but leave. I thought I had all the answers. I wasn't going to relapse. I wasn't like other people.

I ended up losing my baby in residential treatment, but surprisingly, that didn't make me leave or want to use drugs. It made me stronger and brought me closer to God.

It made me more determined to better my life. At the end of my 28 days, I felt like myself again. After graduating from residential treatment, I went through Isaiah House's Intensive Outpatient Program. They made me feel stronger and determined. I later graduated from IOP and moved into sober living.

Throughout the program, I learned a lot about who I was. I also learned that God loves me no matter what. He wants me to prosper in life and enjoy it. He wants me to call upon him when I'm hurting, and he will hold and love me. Every blessing I have received was from the glory of God. All I had to do was let his will thrive and let my will go.

To anyone young and afraid to pick up that phone, please don't be. You have so much to live for. There's more to life than drugs and alcohol, and Isaiah House can show you a path you probably never thought you had. They have so many opportunities for people in the program, from helping you find your higher power, helping with your mental health, helping with your criminal past and getting a car, to helping you find a career you will love.

Isaiah House is more than just a rehab - it's family!

A family that cares. A family that will listen. A family that will pray with you. A family that will help you find who you truly are. - Lily Pyles it's family!”

(Left) Lilian Pyles graduated long-term treatment in December 2023, where she shared her story of salvation, transformation, and the hope she found through the Isaiah House treatment program. (Right) After her speech, Lilian embraced her father, Larry Keith, who is also an Isaiah House graduate and the supervisor of landscaping for Isaiah House centers.

Do not conform to the pattern of this world, but be transformed... -Romans 12:12

I get asked frequently, “Gary, what’s it like to work at Isaiah House?”

The part I enjoy the most is having the honor of seeing the men and women on intake and on their graduation day.

We meet people where they are when they walk through our doors. Sixty to ninety days later, there is a new person.

For example, a dad saw his daughter for the first time since she entered treatment on Family Day. After a brief discussion with him about Isaiah House and the facility, I reminded him to really look at her now. Look at who she is becoming. He later told me that he saw his daughter for the very first time in a new light.

We believe in the transformation that God and a client can make. We are not always perfect, but by God’s grace and his powerful hand, we are seeing lives restored every day.

I thank God for the honor and privilege of working with my Isaiah House family.
